Subject: Disappointment

This em-mail is unfortunately about politics, but I assure you I have no holding on either side of the matter. The fact of the matter is I am truly disappointed that NOAA issued a statement that is contrary to all the facts about the "Alabama forecast". I live in South Florida, and I experienced the wrath of Hurricane Andrew when I was 8 years old. Ever since that time, I have been an avid researcher about hurricanes and all the information that weather services have provided. Now, with the fact that NOAA has backed the misinformed President stating information about the forecasts that was days out of date to the public, I can no longer trust this establishment. This in itself really troubles me, and goes so far as to make me sad and worried. I have lost all respect for the agency that is NOAA to condone this misinformation, I am sorry to say. I truly hope you will make an effort to renew the faith I had in your organization, but as of now, it breaks my heart that I no longer respect your agency like I had.

Sincerely, Kevin.
