The U.S. Seafood Trade Task Force should use the states which successfully navigated the recent pandemic as a road map to solving future problems that attack whole industries (such as the substantial regulatory and technical barriers within the seafood industry). Through public-private partnerships with designated outcomes, many states quickly built testing centers, medical equipment warehouses, and contact tracing programs. Grants and private sponsorship, when done through a fair and honest process, allow entrepreneurs to innovate while rewarding the industry with a carefully-conceived idea to action process that solves major hurdles.

Please consider this model to expedite completion of your goals and initiatives.
